ALLEGED RUSSIAN AGITATOR.

WAS HE "WHITE?"

C.S.P. DRAWS"A DISTINCTION.

The Russian arrested on information that he was a "violent Red" who had taken part in directing labour pickets during the strike at Shameen last year was this morning informed by the Magistrate that the police were satisfied that it was not desirable that he should remain in the Colony and an order for his deportation from the Colony would be made.

When Mr. McElderry' sat this morning he informed the C.S.P., Mr. P. P. J. Wodehouse, that the mun's offence could be only looked upon as a technical one, viz. the lack of a passport. As Magistrate he did not leef inclined to take other matters into consideration.

Mr. Wodehouse 'said that the prisoner had got into touch with other Russians who had come prepared to say that he was what was termed a "White" Russian. When it cume to a question of people's hearts and not of their skins it made things rather difficult, said the C.S.P. Although personally he had as much faith in his side of the facts as the prisoner had in his, he did not wish to be hard on the

After consultation, between the Magistrate and the C.S.P. it was considered that it would be better for the order for deportation to be made by the Magistrate under the powers invested in him by the passport, regulations rather than that the C.S.P. should deport the man under Emergency Regulations. Mr. Wodehouse said in reply to the Magistrate's question that he was satisfied that it was not desirable that the man should remain in the Colony.

An order was made as stated above and conviction was recorded on the technical offence in connection with which the man was fined $1. His Worship ecomenting is: that he had then detained a few days already.

CANTON SHOOTING.

FORMER HONGKONG EDITOR WOUNDED.

FURTHER DETAILS.

This morning's "Wah Tsz Yat Po" publishes a message from its special correspondent in Canton to the effect that when Liu Chung-oi, the notorious Red leader was shot on Friday, Chan Chowlam, formerly editor of the "China News"-a Hongkong-vernacular paper which was raided and closed by the Police—was seriously

A Reuter telgram says that Liu was fired at when he alighted from a motor-car, that guards fired at the assassins of whom one was killed and two were wounded.

SEAMEN CAUGHT.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM BANGKOK

An interesting item in that it indicates the attitude the Siamese authorities are taking up with regard to the strike of seamen at Hongkong, is the information that the crew of the s.s. Kaying (China Navigation Co.) who descried at Bangkok, were arrested by the METAL ROOFING authorities on a charge of having left the ship without having given.

> The Kaying returned to Hongkong with a crew of Malays this morning.

CANTON'S BOLSHEVIK FACTION.

DRASTIC ACTION NEEDED TO

The urgent need for drastic action by the Imperial Government to remedy the critical situation in South China which is ruining Hongkong's trade is to be impressed upon the Prime Minister by a telegram to be despatched from next Tuesday's public meeting in the following spirited terms:—

> This Colony as a vital part of the British Empire, having already vainly appealed through a telegram unanimously passed at a Great Mass Meeting held on July 27 and passed on by the Governor at its request, to His Majesty's Government, now appeals to His Majesty's Prime Minister to take steps to have the following provisions of the Treaties of Nanking, 1842 and Tientsin, 1858, between Great Britain and China carried out, namely:-

(I.) Article II of the Treaty of Nanking which provides that British subjects, with their families and establishments, shall be allowed to reside for the purpose of carrying on their mercantile pursuits, without molestation or retraint, at Canton, Amoy, Foochow, Ningpo and Shanghai.

Article IV of the Treaty of Nanking by which British merchants are permitted, at all ports where they may reside "to carry on their mercantile transactions with whatever persons they please."

(III.)' Article X of the Treaty of Nanking authorising goods belonging to British merchants to be conveyed by Chin-" ese merchants to any province or City in the interior of

Article XI of the Treaty of Tientsin which also opened Swatow and other Southern ports for foreign trade and stated that "it is agreed that British subjects are permitted to carry on trade with whomsoever they please, and to proceed to and fro at pleasure with their vessels and merchandise."

The observance of these provisions of the Treaties is imperative for the commercial prosperity of this Colony, seeing that Canton is the principal gateway for British trade into South China.

CANTON'S EVIL INTENTIONS...

The present Canton authorities who are independent of the Central Government at Peking and have been in office for less than three months are directly and solely responsible for the cutting offof all steamship communication between Canton and Hongkong, both direct and via Macao, and also for the boycott in Canton and other ports in South China of British subjects, ships and good and good

They have also openly declared their intention of destroying by every means in their power, Hongkong its trade and prosperity. In 1924 the total shipping all classes Extered and cleared to and from Hongkong harbour was 764,492 vessels, totalling 57,000;000

Since July 1 this year following the strike the average daily number of vessels entering and clearing Hongkong has been 34 vessels, totalling 55,819 tons. Since July 1 the average daily number of ships (including River steamers) held up through the boycott has been 73, of which 45 are British.

SHIPPING EMBARGO. The recent proclamation by the Canton authorities with regard to coastal navigation states that vessels of any nationality, except British and Japanese, may enter and leave the port of Canton provided they omit Hongkong, which still further destroys British shipping interests. The proclamation is an Act of open hostility to Great Britain and flagrantly and deliberately violates her Treaties with China.

The effect of this action of the Canton authorities has been to cause a complete stoppage of the export of silk from the Canton Delta through Hongkong and of the Import of British piecegoods into Canton and interior; thereby causing disastrous losses both to British and Chinese merchants in this Colony and to the export trade of Lancashire and Yorkshire, which must result in further very considerable and increasing permanent unemployment in Great Britain and the closing of many of their mills.

DELAY FATAL. The Canton-Hongkong problem is entirely separate and distinct from that in any other part of China owing to the fact that Canton does not recognise and is in rebellion against the Central Government at Peking and that no conference held at Peking on tariff or extra-territoriality or any other questions can possibly assist this Colony in the remotest degree, in its present most serious and urgent need; and any delay in dealing direct with Canton and on the South China situation can only result in daily losses to this Colony, of increasing and rulnous magnitude; moreover the British Government, if it delays decisive action now will most certainly have a far larger problem to face at Canton in the future than that confronting it at present. By prompt action now, the Naval and Military Forces, in this Colony could easily place alternative and friendly Chinese authorities in power at Canton. NOT WAR BUT-There is no question whatever of making war on China but simply of ousting the present violent anti-British Bolshevik faction which has recently succeeded in seizing the reins of power at Canton. It may be added that such intervention will be hailed with the greatest satisfaction by the oppressed and terrorized people of Canton.

Apart from the incontestable right of British subjects in this Colony of every race to the protection of the British flag in defence of the provisions of the Treaties between Great Britain and China. this Colony has by its repeated considerable defence contribution, for the past 25 years acquired a right to the active support of the British Government, Such defence contributions amount altogether during that period to the sum of 49 million dollars, the 1924 contribution being the record amount of 414 million dollars, and have naturally been considered by this Colony as an insurance Fund for the protection of the rights secured to British subjects by Treaties with China.

HONGKONG'S DEMAND

Accordingly the residents of this Colony at a great Mass Indignation Meeting demand that the British Government take immediate and decisive action to maintain our Treaty rights and to instal an alternative and Iriendly Chipese Covernment at Canton and that communications and trade between Hongkong. Canton and the interior of South China shall be restored and British Treaty Rights fully carried out by it and that the present intolerable strangulation and boycott of the business of this Colony by Canton

MASSACRE TO CONCEAL THEFTS.

HIGHTFOLD CRIME.

Is it possible for the eye of a murdered man to retain a picture of his assassin that can be photographed by the police and used as evidence?

The question will figure largely at the trial of Fritz Angerstein at He is charged with the murder eight people, and the police allege that a photograph of the retina of one of the victim's eyes revealed a picture of Angerstein with his raised arm gripping a hatchet.

The dead man in question was one of Angerstein's gardeners. The police theory was that, as hereceived the first terrible blow from the murderer's hatchet, the retina had become transfixed in his death agony and had retained the horrible scene in miniature."

.The report of this remarkable feat of the camera caused a sensation throughout the entire medical and scientific world, and the police were besieged with inquiries for more details of the fact, and requests to view the extraordinary and irrefutable piece of evidence. These requests were not granted, and scientists were sceptical.

This damning "evidence," however, was sufficient to make Angerstein confess, Villa Fired.

Angerstein is the manager of a alleged to have mudered are his wife, his mother-in-law, his sisterin-law, a housemaid, two gardeners, and two office employees. After killing his victims with hatchet blows and knife thrusts, Angerstein set fire to the villa in which the bodies lay, hoping to destroy all traces of his guilt, and then stabbed himself to support his statement that the murderers were a gang of thieves who had attacked the villa and, after murdering all the occupants, had set it in flames. The first intimation of the crime was given by passengers in the six o'clock morning train on December 1, 1924, to the township of Haiger, who heard a man's cries [] for help as they passed a villa from which smoke was issuing by the side of the railway line. The police were advised, and hurried to the villa, where they found ? The present (1925-6) issue of Angerstein lying wounded from a the CHINA YEAR BOOK is again knife thrust in the breast, and Mangled Wife.

In side the house, the roof and upper part of which were completely destroyed by the flames, a ghastly sight met their eyes. Frau Angerstein, who had been on her sick-bed, was found with her throat cut, and no fewer than eighteen knife thrusts in her body. In the kitchen was her mother with her head severed by a hatchet. In another room was her sister, also stabbed to death. Upstairs in the still smouldering garret was the carbonised body of the housemaid, Fraulein Stoll. In the basement serving as an office were the two clerks. Heinrich Kiel and Reinhardt Ditthardt, both done to death with a hatchet, while the young gardeners, Rudolf Darr and Alexander Geis, were found similarly murdered in another room in the basement. Angerstein's confession, made after the police report of the murder photograph of the eye of one of his victims, was that he murdered the whole household and burned the villa to prevent the possibility of his financial irregularities becoming known.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

PIONEER DAYS IN CHINA

THE CHATER COLLECTION.

Reviewing "The Chater Collection: Pictures relating to China Hongkong, and Macao, 1655-1800. with historical and descriptive etterpress by James Orange, the 'Observer" says :- In his scholarly, and discriminating entalogue of the collection of pictures and books purchased by Sir Paul Chater for presentation to the Crown Colony of Hongkong, Mr. Orange wrought a worthy monument, only to the public spirit of whose name for munificent generosity is well known throughout the Far East, but to the memory those stout-hearted English mariners, pioneers, and merchant adventurers, who established the first outposts, and laid the foundations of our trade in the China seas. His historical and descriptive notes under each of the twelve chronological sections of the book, annotated with well-chosen extracts from the works of Oliphants Staunton, Wingrove Cooke, Fortume, and other contemponery writers, add greatly to the interest and charm of two hundred odd paintings, beautifully reproduced by the Nickeloid Electrotype Compuny's "Ultimatt" process. Every page of the book contains evidence of the ripe knowledge which Mr. Orange brings to hear upon a subject which he evidently loves.

Chinese affairs, this volume comes most opportunely, at a time of critical turmoil and unrest, to remind us how particularly true it is in China that there is no new thing under the sun. No one can study this vivid account of the first Englishmen in Far Cathay, of their daily lives in the Oriental equivalent of a Ghetto at Canton, and of the present agitation. of their relations with Chinese mandarins and merchants, without

At Hongkong our vigorous Governor has his business well-in hand, while those who forced the mischief in that quarter, the Cantonese "Reds;" are riddled with dissension as usual.' It seems probable that passion and disorder will die down again in the next few weeks, but for long the ashes will remain hot and full of live sparkles. If nothing is done by the Powers in concert, this trouble will flame up again sooner or later. The nationalist resentment that smouldered before this outbreak will be stronger after it.

A PLAIN BRITISH POLICY. Mr. Austen Chamberlain's declarations on behalf of the Foreign Office have been firm, but not narrow: We cannot yield an inch to the attempts to convert antiforeign feeling in China into a concentrated anti-British movement. In this respect we have had less support from some of the Treaty Powers than might have been expected. Our business is not to shun investigation into the origin of the Shanghai disturbances, but to court it and to insist that it shall be full and impartial. When all this is said, we have still to prevent our whole commercial position and due influence from being weakened by popular misunderstanding. We have to prove conspicuously that we are not the particular and obstinate antagonists of Chinese nationalism. we are wise we shall promptly accept and encourage the American suggestion of a Conference to provide for increasing China's tariff-revenue and to enquire-into the future of ex-territoriality. If everyone who takes advantage of the service were also a licence-holder, the progress would have been even more rapid; but though the number of flicences has riseh to 1,371,581 there are still many "pirates" whose evasion of their obligation of disallowance with respect to the is retarding development. The company has done a good deal Orindance No. 5 of 1925.—An more than it agreed to do when Ordinance to provide for the it entered into its short-term conincorporation of the Trustees of tract with the Postmasterthe Sailors Home, Hongkong. It has character of the revolution which brought good music of a varied classical to the most popular, into tens of thousands of homes, and provided lectures on almost every subject under the sun and sermons on Sunday evenings; while the special needs of the children early received attention. When the extent of the services offered by the company are contrasted with the smallness of the fee charged for the licence, it must be agreed that listeners-in have had good value for their money. And yet no one is quite satisfied, not even Lord Gainford himself, the chairman of the company. He wants a larger revenue in order that further developments may be pushed on, for he realises, as everyone must, that broadcasting is still only in its infancy. It is probably no bad thing that the Government should be about 'to hold' an inquiry, if only that criticism may have an opportunity of finding expression. This decision implies no condemnation of the work which has been done, rather the opposite. "In little more than two years," as Lord Gainford has reminded us, "broadcasting has not only been established as a necessary part of the machinery of civilisation, but it has come to exert a definite influence on the minds of the people." It provides already amusement and instruction on a generous scale. That those who have been responsible for the building up, of the organisation, though conscious that they have done better than was expected, are still dissatisfied is the best proof of their high

CHINA AND THE WEST.

(To the Editor of the China Mail).

Sir,—I read in yesterday's papers that Dr. Tso expressed his doubt as to whether Western Education was good for Chinese students. Western Education carries with it what we understand as Western Civilisation, and as I feel that Western Civilisation, as it stands to-day, does more harm than good to China, I agree with Dr. Tso that the Chinese have not benefitted from

Western Education. Yet, though firmly convinced that China was a happier but weaker nation when her own peculiar civilisation was unconfaminated by Western influence, I say that China has to move on with the rest of the world and has to try her best to adapt herself to a civilisation which is as different from her own as West is from Civilisation. She has to learn to be as "Civilised" as her visitors and acquire what knowledge she can of Western Science, the concomitant of Western Civilisation. Western Science with its modern implements of War, is an invaluable asset to a nation in an age when, in spite of all that the advocates of Western Science can say, "Might is Right" holds strongly as it did in the days when our ancestors dressed in animal skins stalked about with heavy clubs.

I burden of railway transportation. Thrills For The Onlooker.

For these reasons the manufacture of the rails is a process filled with human interest. The modern rolling mill is an impressive and awe-inspiring place. The growth of the steel from ingot to completed rail is a series of thrills to the visitor.

Rail production begins in the underground mines which supply the ore for the creation of iron. From this starting point the raw material is transported to the blast furnace for conversion into The rail of to-day is a product of the metal billets known as pig. furnace itself is a mighty steel structure lined with fire-brick and resembling a huge boiler standing upright. In the passage through this tower the ore subjected to varying intensity of heat, reaching a maximum of 3500 degrees -a temperature which surpasses the layman's comprehension. The fierce heat and the chemical action resulting from a fused mixture of ore, goke and limestone remove native impurities and deliver the molten metal in the form

To accom- | manipulate this material at will. Some plish the removal of these properties of my pies would start as chunks of through the blooming mills, a series of the molten iron is subjected to a baptism of fire. This is followed by the scientific introduction of carbon, manganese or other substances in the exact proportions required for the particular kind of steel in process of production. The conversion of iron into steel takes place in the Bessemer converter and the Open Hearth furnace.

Mammoth Ingots Of Steel, The steel comes forth in ingots weighing from 4,000 to 8,000 pounds. These ingots are short and stubby. They bear little resemblance to the steel rails for which they are intended. The transformation is worth watching. Mr. first glimpse of the process recalled the diversions of youth. The one thing suggested was my experience with the cook's rolling pin in the creation of mud pies. My material was a tough clay suggesting bricks. Under the action of the roller these grew in length as they became flattened. The steel ingots are subjected to similar influence. In the rolling mill the rollers are stationary, except for the rotary motion produced by mechanical power. The ingots, raised to white heat, are fed into the space between these rollers. feeding requires the use of powerful overhead cranes which lift the heavy them on a rolling table which carries

From this point the metal is sent rolls by which the mass is further lengthened and narrowed. The completed passage leaves the steel in shape which for the first time suggests the coming rail in the matter of pro-

Spinning rollers now carry the metal forward for the shearing process, which removes the roughness at the ends and reduces the shape to the necessary length. Then come the roughing mills, effectively calls for the exercise of for shaping the rails into finished form. Straightening Out The Kinks. Another influence of the heat produces a tendency to warp. This is overcome by subjecting the metal to th bending power of a machine which leaves the rail slightly curved at the top. The cooling bed removes th artificial kink and leaves the rail almost straight. Such kinks as may remain are then eliminated by the blows of nowerful plunger, a process applied to the four sides as needed. Burrs and roughness are removed by chipping, and grinding, the ends are filed to perfect smoothness and the rail is ready to be drilled. The drilling produces holes at each end for the insertion of the bolts by means of which rails are joined together in the construction of a stretch of railway track.

The finished rail is no plaything. Thirty-three feet in length, and with a probable weight of from 90 to 100 pounds to the yard, a single rail may weigh considerably more than a thousand pounds. To hundle this burden mechanical ingenuity. The former unformed mass of metal of the earlier load of several rails is a mere handful- progress stages. Each groove is a trifle deeper | The life of the rail is one of constanting and slightly more refined than its pre-decessor. In the passage through these the steel is swiftly transformed and the visitor finds it growing into rails before produced by the rushing wheels. The force of the pounding is tremendous From this point the process is one of Each successive wheel brings the burdence finishing. To secure proper length for afresh, as all of us have noticed in the individual rail the metal is brought | watching a train that thunders by unit into contact with circular saws which at full speed. At the joints the force is make short work of removing surplus greatly intensified, and the slightestiff longitude. The standard length of the sagging results in a mighty blow on their American rail of to-day is 33 feet. To hend of the rail following the joint. To produce this dimension due allowance withstand this destructive force the I rail must be exceedingly tough. On italy proper performance depends the lives of travellers and the safety of property values in vast amounts. The chemical proporties of steel are of vital importance. These properties vary with the proportion of the constituent elements, and each factory demands careful watching. Steel too rich in carbon is apt 'to be brittle. Because of this, and other chemical problems, the metal is subjected to the closest analytical scrutiny. This takes: place in the production of the original ingot. The mill chemists make sure of their product during the process of con-Ca version from iron into steel. Aftern reaching the rail mills the chemistry of the steel undergoes no transformation The finished rail has the same constituent elements that existed in the steel ingot. The sole changes are physical and these are along the lines? of increased resistance, resulting from increased density and from augmentation of the tensile strength through the longitudinal rolling.

Every detail of the manufacturings process de under close supervision. From ore to rail the changes are rigidly inspected by men skilled in the detections of flaws and impurities. Rarely-so rarely that one can hardly mention a case in point-there is a theme that persists; outside of the costume ensemble which we are discussing the straightline silhouette is the only one of recent years. The reason former is identical with the for the latter-its becoming adaptability and its smart suitability. Both have proven a boon to the woman of full figure, and after the teens and the twenties there are more large women than small. And fashion, is at · last, giving them heed as they should Both the straightline silhouette and the ensemble are practica fashions, the former for itsenessibilities of remodelling; the latter for reasons -that will be obvious from any consideration of the mode.

Ifalt's An Ensemble, It's Correct. Barring any and every consideration of lines, colour, fabrics and all the many Reletails of the fashions of the present hour—and of the hours to come—if it's an ensemble, it's correct, and the word applies to many things besides suits and frocks. Ask any French designer what she considers the ultimate end and aim of a fashion and she will promptly answer "Simplicity." That does not. for a necessity, mean plain effects, but Tanther the simplicity that is founded Son subtlety. It is the goal the designer Dets out to attain, and when she finds an idea that contributes to it, she keeps fat, changing it slightly with the new meason, but retaining it as a theme. That is why we are being delighted with new and varied interpretations of The ensemble; why the idea is touching Every possible department of dress even to lingerle. It is a far more important note in spring fashions than Lit was in the fall and winter modes: fattire; it prevails in the morning, aftermoon, evening and unclassified sports | it be the plain little wool swimming | what we are pleased to call the "sport's mode; it appears, even now, at this mid-season time, in apparel, for both Northern and Southern wear, and links the fashions of to-day with those of #50-morrow.

Analyzing the mode we have—there are the ensemble suits of many kinds, interpretation for all hours of the May and for all purposes; the ensemble costume for evening wear; the ensemble Brock; ensemble effects in jewellery, in shoes and hosiery, in hats and scaris, beach, boudoir and all time apparel. and as a result, every new vogue and brighators, is subordinated to, and thus cular type of ensemble, chosen because secomes a part of the ensemble theme.

interesting season has been interpreted in relation to, and embodied in the ensemble. All the newest silks and woollens; all the leveliest designsplaids, stripes, prints, embroideries; all the rarest colourings and the most unusual combinations of these colours have been used to glorify this one fundamental idea. And the result is yours to adopt, adapt and enjoy?

That you may the better understand the breadth of the scope of this fashion. of the ensemble, we will enumerate. Our first thought is of the ensemble suit-two or three piece as the case may be; although when it consists of dress and coat it is frequently misnamed three-piece. It is, this ensemble suit, the most important single unit in the general scheme. It means that one may buy a frock, a cost and a suit at one and the same time, for the dress may be worn without the coat; the coat without the dress and with other dresses; and the two together make a suit that is perfection. And when the suit is made up of coat, skirt and tunic, there are even greater possibilities of change and combination. It is the same whether it be a sports suit; a tailored affair: or a costume for semi-formal afternoon wear, such a costume correct for many evening affairs, as well.

The ensemble frock is rather new, and is so-called because it is cut to appear like a coat and dress. It will be a very desirable type for street wear when spring comes, for one will feel as though, she had on a suit, and will not have the extra weight. It permits the use of beautiful fabrics and the combination of colours and shade of colours and is a distinct addition to fashion. We are having, for winter sports, ensemble outfits of sweater, cap. gloves, scurf and hosiery, or an ensemble may be made up of any two or more of the group. There are hat and scarf ensembles for street wear; and at times the trimming on the hat not only matches the scarf, but is really another scarf; and again, there is a bag | this trend we have the costume suit of added to the outfit.

As to the importance of the players, sometimes it is Line, sometimes Fabric, again it is Colour that plays the lead, with Trimmings an understudy to all three. Pastel colourings are making a decided bid for prominence when it comes to hosiery-or rather manufacturers are making a bid for them. By pastels are meant the soft shades of blue, pink, green, gray and orchid. But the various shades of beige are still pronounced correct, and there seems to be a very decided tendency to retain "airedale," practically the only new shade of the 1924 spring to weather the storms of winter. Scottish ballad poetry has the grim incalculable quality of an element: it is the only poetry perhaps which could be retranslated into terms of sea and wind. Much poetry is written about sea and wind, but ballad poetry is different—it is the sea and wind personal experience. Perhaps this is the test of all great Art, through actually experienced? To all whose imaginations are sencitive, great imaginative work is an experience often more real that the actualities of daily life and nothing less than this sense of vivid, first-hand reality wil satisfy them.
